Classroom spotlight

We are growing everyday. The November calendar is posted and we even added three new classes including Snake Tie Draft Dodgers, Racey Recycled Resin and Snowman Coaster and Trivet Set. November seats will fill up quickly, so grab some friends and book a class! If you are all over 21, you can BYOB.

Iris Folding Cards

Make your own unique Christmas cards this year! For 25 dollars you can learn the technique on 3 different Christmas cards that you can make for the season. Julie Snyder will be teaching this class on November. We will update the website with a Christmas card photo. See the website for more details.

So You Wanna Sew?

Ms. Freada has been busy with her students this month. Class one was an envelope pillow case, class two was a basic apron, class three was a skirt or pants with pattern reading and class four is adding flair, buttons and design. You can sign up for Ms. Freada's sewing class by calling the HoPo. These are scheduled on Tuesdays and there is an evening and a day class available. Reserve your spot today.

My brand is Knit Yeah! In my professional life, I am a Manager for Ben Franklin Technology Partners (a statewide technology-based economic development assistance program). In my crafting life, I have settled in on knitting for many years now. I knit adult hats, scarves, and other fun accessories as well as baby/toddler/kid clothes and accessories. My crafting life has been a winding path of discovery from knitting and crocheting as a child to quilting, sewing, painting, and cross stitch throughout my teen and adult years. I am the mom of a very active 7yo girl and have a wonderfully understanding husband who I consult with on fiber choices, color combinations and pattern designs (He also puts up with tubs of yarn and supplies all over the house and trying on a myriad of knit items). I knit in between life, which adds life to my knitting! Family (including our dogs), music, vegetarian cooking, and my day job, oh, and of course Twittering, are some of my other passions. I also teach Knitting 101 at the HoPo!

Justin Arawjo

I was raised in the Poconos on top of a mountain by professional basket weavers and have been making things for longer than I can remember. I currently run Communita Graphics where I design and silkscreen all sorts of clothing and accessories. Things I enjoy include adventure, spontaneity, learning, colors, textures, libraries, vagrancy, bear hugs, train tracks, old songs, new songs, stars, bikes, idealism, romance, positivity, cooking, vaudeville, foraging and edible plants, tea, seasons, industrial collapse, animals, vegetables, old wives' tales, herbal medicine, monsters, hex signs, dumpster diving, bizarre circus history, rambling, roaming, wandering, power outages, and falling asleep under trees. Things I do not enjoy include jobs, cars, and crowds. You can find my screen printed t-shirts at The HodgePodgery.
