Mary and Kevin Abbott

Jabebo Earrings is a home-based family business that we operate out of our Victorian home in Bellefonte, PA. Our earrings are lovingly handcrafted from our own artwork and mounted on two layers of repurposed cereal boxes. They are then dipped in shellac, a natural product. Our goal is to create wearable art that is unique, "green," and affordable. They are a big hit with teachers, animal-lovers, bird watchers, and anyone who wants to nurture their inner science nerd.

Kathy DellaValle

My name is Kathy and I'm an eco-jewelry designer, aka Artwork by KD. I create original, hand-made jewelry out of plastic bottles and aluminum cans. I collect my materials from everyday life and I also get generous donations from friends and family! I absolutely love what I do! It's so fun to create funky, wearable art out of objects that would otherwise sit in a landfill. I'm also a musician! At The HodgePodgery, you can find my earrings and rings.
